AFRICAN & AFRICAN-AMERICAN STUDIES

CHANGE: COURSE DESCRIPTION

AAAS 433 ISLAMIC LITERATURE 3 H/W, NW
(OLD) Contemporary literature that is set in the context of Muslim cultures provide for an examination of Muslim identity on its own terms. This course focuses on the literary examination of works by Muslim authors from Egypt, Sudan, Senegal, Guinea, Mali, Morocco, Nigeria, and Niger. From the perspectives of both male and female authors, the issue of what it means to be a Muslim is considered through fictional accounts set in contemporary contexts. Some works will be read in translation from Arabic or French; others are written originally in English. Cultures considered in this course vary widely in their origins and customs, which allows for a focus on the one pervasive element they share in common: Islam as it shapes people's lives.

AAAS 433 ISLAMIC LITERATURE 3 H/W, NW
(NEW) This course focuses on literature that reflects Islamic culture from its inception to contemporary times. Beginning with attention to the importance of the spoken word in the establishment of Islam, course readings and lectures follow the place of literary works in confirming Islamic perspectives. Readings include selections from the Qur'an, classical works of poetry and narrative, and contemporary autobiography. Authors are from Africa and the region of the Golden Age of Islam, including the best known: al-Ghazali (d.1111 C.E.), Attar (d. circa 1193-1235), Ibn Arabi (d. 1240 C.E.), Rumi (d. 1273), Saadi (d.1291), Hafiz (d. 1389 C.E.), and Shah (contemporary), as well as readings by and about less well known Muslim women scholars and Sufis in all historical periods. Readings are all in English translations.

ANTH 315 THE PREHISTORY OF ART 3 S
(OLD) A study of art forms, paintings, engravings, and sculptures attributed to prehistoric people around the world; consideration of the environmental and cultural contexts in which these art forms were created; a review of current interpretations. (Same as HA 315)

ANTH 315 THE PREHISTORY OF ART 3 S
(NEW) A survey of prehistoric art focusing on the material record and interpretations of rock art (paintings, engravings on rock surfaces in rockshelters, caves and in open air sites) and portable art created by prehistoric people. The emphasis is on the small-scale societies (hunter-gatherer and early food producers) around the world before the appearance of written records in respective geographic areas. Environmental, social and cultural contexts in which these art forms were created are discussed along with a review of past scholarship and current interpretive approaches to this old and enduring expression of human creativity. (Same as HA 315.)

JUSTIFICATION:
The Indigenous Nations Studies Program currently offers the M.A. degree. It is a small program established almost ten years ago. The program is poised to have a stronger presence on campus and to have an intellectual impact on undergraduate students through the strategic development of undergraduate courses. As a small program, there is sufficient teaching capacity for additional students. Some undergraduate students have approached the program to inquire about undergraduate classes and even the possibility of an undergraduate minor. At present, the program seeks to strategically identify courses that may attract undergraduate students and also contribute to meeting the requirement for knowledge of a non-Western culture. The purpose of non-Western culture courses is “to acquaint students with the culture, society, and values of a non-Western people. This must be understood to include peoples indigenous to Asia, the Pacific Islands, the Middle East, and Africa, as well as autochthonous Native American cultures” (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, memo, October 30, 1985, provided by Karen Ledom). The proposed “Indigenous Food and Health” focuses particularly on Native American cultures and establishes a basis for the comparative analysis of indigenous cultures in other countries as well. This will be an undergraduate version of INS 830 Indigenous Food and Health. The two courses will meet together, with graduate level requirements and grading criteria for graduate students receiving credit for INS 830. This particular course may also have an additional benefit for the Indigenous Nations Studies Program and for KU’s linkage with Haskell Indian Nations University (HINU). The Indigenous Nations Studies M.A. Program has often attracted a significant number of graduates from HINU. As a junior-senior level undergraduate course, the proposed INS 530 may sometimes attract advanced undergraduate students from HINU who can take advantage of the option of enrolling in a KU course; for such students, the course may serve as a "bridge" experience that will help prepare them for possible admission to the M.A. program in Indigenous Nations Studies and graduate study at KU. (Program is simultaneously submitting a proposal for INS 830 to the College CGS. “Indigenous Food and Health” has been offered in the past under a topics number, and the program is seeking to give it a unique number. Because of an oversight, this proposal did not get included with the three proposals submitted earlier in academic year 2007-2008, which have already been approved: INS 101, INS 504, and INS 510.)

b) HL Principal Course Status for SLAV 149

ACTION: Existing Course

SLAV 149   INTRODUCTION TO SLAVIC FOLKLORE, HONORS

DESCRIPTION:
An introduction to the various forms of folklore among the Slavic peoples, with particular emphasis on the folk literature, customs, and artifacts of Russia, Poland, and the South Slavic countries.

JUSTIFICATION:
This course is the honors equivalent of SLAV 148, which is already an approved HL principal course. This request is simply to give appropriate principal course credit to those who take the honors version.

c) New emphasis area for BS Biology – “Teaching Biology”

PROPOSAL:
As part of the UKanTeach initiative, we are proposing a new Bachelor of Science degree within the Biology suite of options that will create a pathway for students to earn a biology degree and receive teaching licensure in Biology. This new Biology degree option is designed to be completed in four years, while enabling students to obtain a breadth experiences in the biological sciences and a teaching license.

UKanTeach is a partnership between the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Education. It is the goal of UKanTeach to have approximately 50 KU math and science teachers graduating each year.

BS Teaching Biology curriculum requirements are listed on the attached degree plan.

Justice:
We offer this Bachelor of Science in Teaching Biology as part of the UKanTeach initiative to educate and train teachers in the physical and biological sciences and mathematics. At this time, Kansas has a critical shortage of secondary science and mathematics teachers, and UKanTeach is designed to attract KU students to the teaching profession through degree plans such as the B.S. Teaching Biology option. Students completing the BS Teaching Biology requirements will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in the biological sciences and have the coursework necessary to be licensed to teach in the Kansas public school systems. The B.S. Teaching Biology curriculum is robust enough to allow flexibility in students’ career options while preparing them to be successful biology teachers in the public school classroom.

PROPOSAL:
This submission is to correct the original approved proposal, which indicated in both the humanities area and the research methods area that substitutes for the courses listed could be handled through UKanTeach. These substitutions must be approved by the academic unit.

UKanTeach is a new, additional pathway to secondary teacher licensure in Geology. Our goal is to create a new concentration in Geology for secondary teaching licensure so students will be able to complete a four-year program that will lead to a degree in Geology and a teaching license. Currently there is no program that offers this option on campus.

UKanTeach is a partnership between the KU College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the KU School of Education, and Kansas school districts. UKanTeach plans to double the number of KU math and science teachers graduating each year, resulting in approximately 50 new teachers each year.
The requirements of the new concentration are outlined in full in the attached degree plan.

This program is designed to fulfill the requirements necessary for a Bachelor of Science in Geology. The program is also designed to fulfill the course requirements necessary to gain state licensure eligibility in earth and space science to become a secondary teacher in Kansas, but completion of the program does not guarantee the student’s licensure. This checklist has been created as a guideline and is not considered to be an official document. Contact the UKanTeach Office for further information about meeting degree and additional licensure requirements. You may also contact the UKanTeach Office for information regarding similar tracks resulting in eligibility for licensure in this and other science and mathematics fields.

JUSTIFICATION:

Kansas has a critical shortage of secondary mathematics and science teachers. The UKanTeach concentration will attract additional KU students to teaching because students who select this concentration will be able to obtain a degree in Geology and be eligible for teacher licensure in a four-year program. Students will be able to keep their career options open as they proceed through their Geology degree. Other universities have found that a high percentage of these graduates will decide to teach.

e) Change to the Peace & Conflict Studies Minor

PROPOSAL:

This is a request for a change in rubric to PCS for course listings in the Peace and Conflict Studies Minor. These courses are offered by the Humanities and Western Civilization Program and currently carry the HWC rubric. (Curricular change forms for individual courses have been submitted.)

Present Description:
Current required courses:
HWC 120 Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies
HWC 650 Senior Seminar in Peace and Conflict Studies

Current core courses:
HWC 550 Classics of Peace Literature
HWC 329 History of War and Peace
Current elective courses include the following:
HWC 555 Topics in Peace and Conflict Studies
HWC 560 Directed Study in Peace and Conflict Studies
HWC 565 Literature of Human Rights

Proposed Description:
Following the change of rubric to PCS these courses will appear in the PCS Minor requirements as follows:
(Note: all courses will continue to be offered through the Humanities and Western Civilization Program.)

PCS Minor required courses:
PCS 120 Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies
PCS 650 Senior Seminar in Peace and Conflict Studies

PCS Minor core courses:
PCS 550 Classics of Peace Literature
PCS 329 History of War and Peace

PCS Minor elective courses:
PCS 555 Topics in Peace and Conflict Studies
PCS 560 Directed Study in Peace and Conflict Studies
PCS 565 Literature of Human Rights

JUSTIFICATION:
This is a request for a change in rubric only. Course descriptions, numbers and content will remain the same. The proposed rubric (PCS) corresponds more closely to the subject matter of the courses in question and renders these listings more easily identifiable and accessible to students.

f) New Double Language Concentration for East Asian Languages & Cultures major

PROPOSAL
EALC wishes to launch a new concentration that allows students to major in two East Asian languages. The requirements are as follows:

Requirements for the Double-language Concentration in EALC. At least 32 hours of junior/senior level courses are required, or 31 if one of the languages is Korean. One year of advanced level language study is required: in the cases of Chinese and Japanese, CHIN 504-508 for 10 credits, JPN 504-508 and JPN 306-310 for 10 credits; KOR 504-508 for 6 credits. Students must take one course on the premodern culture and one on the modern culture of each of the languages they are studying. If one of the languages is Korean, the student must take an additional East Asian studies course. At least nine hours of content courses must be taken at K.U.
JUSTIFICATION
Language requirements are the same as for the other two languages, that is, completion of the third-year. Since KOR 504-508 is 6 credits, an additional course is required for those using Korean to fulfill this concentration.

The reason for this new major concentration has to do with the recent increase in students wishing to take two East Asian languages. Within current requirements, there is no way to recognize such students, and as of now they can only use one of the languages toward the major in EALC.

g) Change in East Asian Area Studies/Chinese concentration for East Asian Languages & Cultures major

PROPOSAL
EALC wishes to revise its major requirements for concentrations in Chinese and Japanese, to create a new concentration in Korean, and to create a new double language concentration. Currently, for Chinese and Japanese majors there are TWO concentrations, one in language and literature, one in East Asian Area Studies. These revisions will be done separate. What follows is for the concentration in East Asian Area Studies and Chinese.

Current requirements for the concentration in East Asian Area Studies and Chinese are for 31 credits, including: completion of third-year of Chinese 504-508 for 10 credits, completion of EALC/HIST 585 (Imperial China) and EALC/Hist 586 (Modern China) for 6 credits, ECIV 304 or 305 for 3 credits, at least one course outside China (i.e., Japan, Korea, Tibet) for 3 credits, one course in Humanities on China for 3 credits, one course in Social Sciences on China for 3 credits, and one Asia related course for 3 credits.

Revised requirements for EALC B.A. in East Asian Area Studies with a concentration in Chinese. At least 31 hours of junior/senior level courses are required: ECIV 304 or ECIV 305; CHIN 504 and CHIN 508; one course on premodern and one on modern China (e.g., EALC 583 and 584); *one course on China in a discipline in the humanities, *one course on China in a social science discipline, either of which may be cross-regional in scope; one additional upper-level course in East Asian studies; and one course wholly on an East Asian country other than China. The Honors course 499 may be used to fulfill any of the above marked with *. At least nine hours of content courses must be taken at K.U.

JUSTIFICATION
Language requirements remain the same. The increase in East Asian courses at K.U. covering more than one East Asian culture explains the option for a course that is cross-regional in scope. Also new is the option to use EALC 499, the course for the Honors thesis, to replace requirements designated with an asterisk.

Former requirement stipulated that students “take premodern and modern history sequences in the country of concentration.” Course offerings in the History department have proven too irregular to allow this stipulation, thus the change to a more general designation of “one course on premodern and one on modern …”

Former requirement stipulated that students “take at least one EALC 500-level course that requires a substantial research paper.” All EALC courses at 300 and above require such papers, making this stipulation redundant.

h) Change in East Asian Area Studies/Japanese concentration for East Asian Languages & Cultures major

PROPOSAL
EALC wishes to revise its major requirements for concentrations in Chinese and Japanese, to create a new concentration in Korean, and to create a new double language concentration. Currently, for Chinese and Japanese majors there are TWO concentrations, one in language and literature, one in East Asian Area Studies. These revisions will be done separate. What follows is for the concentration in East Asian Area Studies and Japanese.

Current requirements for the concentration in East Asian Area Studies and Japanese are for 31 credits, including: completion of third-year of Japanese 504-508, 306-310 for 10 credits, completion of EALC/HIST 588 (Japan to 1853) and EALC/Hist 589 (Modern Japan) for 6 credits, ECIV 304 or 305 for 3 credits, at least one course outside Japan (i.e., China, Korea, Tibet) for 3 credits, one course in Humanities on Japan for 3 credits, one course in Social Sciences on Japan for 3 credits, and one Asia related course for 3 credits.

The revised requirements for East Asian Area Studies with a concentration in Japanese are as follows: At least 31 hours of junior/senior level courses are required: JPN 306-310 and JPN 504-508; ECIV 304 or ECIV 305; one course on premodern and one on modern Japan; *one course on Japan in a discipline in the humanities and *one course on Japan in a social science discipline, either of which may be cross-regional in scope; one additional East Asian studies course; and one course wholly on an East Asian country other than Japan. The Honors course 499 may be used to fulfill any of the above marked with *. At least nine hours of content courses must be taken at K.U.

Former requirement stipulated that students “take at least one EALC 500-level course that requires a substantial research paper.” All EALC courses at 300 and above require such papers, making this stipulation redundant.

i) New East Asian Area Studies/Korean concentration for East Asian Languages & Cultures major

PROPOSAL
EALC wishes to revise its major requirements for concentrations in Chinese and Japanese, to create a new concentration in Korean, and to create a new double language concentration. Currently, for Chinese and Japanese majors there are TWO concentrations, one in language and literature, one in East Asian Area Studies. These revisions will be done separate. What follows is for the concentration in Korean. EALC wishes to launch a new concentration in East Asian Area studies and Korean that parallels the East Asian Areas studies concentrations in Chinese and Japanese (there currently not being enough Korean language courses or faculty to justify a concentration in Korean language and literature). The requirements are as follows:

Requirements for the B.A. Degree: East Asian Area Studies Concentration in Korean. At least 30 hours of junior/senior level courses are required; completion of third-year Korean 504-508; ECIV 304 or ECIV 305; one course on premodern and one on modern Korea; *one course on East Asia in a discipline in the humanities;*one course on East Asia in a social science discipline, and three East Asian studies courses in any field. KOR 562 (fourth-year Korean) may be used in place of one of the East Asian studies courses. The Honors course 499 may be used to fulfill any of the above marked with *. At least nine hours of content courses must be taken at K.U.

JUSTIFICATION
Language requirements are the same as for the other two languages, that is, completion of the third-year of Korean. The increase in East Asian courses at K.U. covering more than one East Asian culture explains the option for a course that is cross-regional in scope. Also new is the option to use EALC 499, the course for the Honors thesis, to replace requirements designated with an asterisk.

The reason for 30 and not 31 total hours is due to the fact that KOR 504-508 are 6 not 10 hours (as are the third-year levels of Chinese and Japanese). For the 4 hour difference, we require one 3 hour course since two 3 hours courses would be unfair, and there are no one hour courses in EALC.

j) Change in Language & Literature/Chinese concentration for East Asian Languages & Cultures major

PROPOSAL
EALC wishes to revise its major requirements for concentrations in Chinese and Japanese, to create a new concentration in Korean, and to create a new double language concentration. Currently, for Chinese and Japanese majors there are TWO concentrations, one in language and literature, one in East Asian Area Studies. These revisions will be done separate. What follows is for the language and literature concentration in Chinese.

Current requirements for the concentration in Chinese language and literature are for 31 credits, including: completion of third-year of Chinese 504-508 for 10 credits, and two semesters of classical Chinese 542-544 for 6 credits, and one semester of fourth-year Chinese 562 for 3 credits. In addition, ECIV 304 or 305 for 3 credits, one Chinese literature in translation at 300 or above for 3 credits, one pre-modern Chinese culture/history course at 300 or above for 3 credits, and one modern Chinese culture/history course at 300 or above.

The revised requirements for EALC concentration in Chinese Language and Literature are as follows: At least 31 credit hours of junior/senior-level courses are required: CHIN 504-508; CHIN 562, CHIN 542, and a choice of the following: CHIN 564, CHIN 544, or a course in Chinese linguistics; ECIV 304 or ECIV 305; one course in Chinese literature or culture in translation (must be taught by an EALC faculty member or in an approved study abroad program), and one course each on *premodern and *modern China. A course that is cross-regional in scope may be substituted for either the premodern or modern China course (e.g. Buddhism in Asia for premodern China, Entrepreneurship in East Asia for modern China). The Honors course 499 may be used to fulfill either of the above marked with *. At least nine hours of content courses must be taken at K.U.

JUSTIFICATION
The department used to require Chin 542 AND 544 (two semesters of Classical Chinese), but now makes 544 optional and instead offers the student a choice of 544, 564, or a course in Chinese linguistics.

The increase in East Asian courses at K.U. covering more than one East Asian culture explains the option for a course that is cross-regional in scope (that is, a course that covers more than one East Asian culture). Also new is the option to use EALC 499, the course for the Honors thesis, to replace requirements designated with an asterisk.

Former requirement stipulated that students “take at least one EALC 500-level course that requires a substantial research paper.” All EALC courses at 300 and above require such papers, making this stipulation redundant.

k) Change in Language and Literature/Japanese concentration for East Asian Languages & Cultures major

PROPOSAL
EALC wishes to revise its major requirements for concentrations in Chinese and Japanese, to create a new concentration in Korean, and to create a new double language concentration. Currently, for Chinese and Japanese majors there are TWO concentrations, one in language and literature, one in East Asian Area Studies. These revisions will be done separate. What follows is for the language and literature concentration in Japanese.

Current requirements for the concentration in Japanese language and literature are for 31 credits, including: completion of third-year of Japanese 504-508, 306-310 for 10 credits, one semester of fourth-year Japanese 562 for 3 credits, ECIV 304 or 305 for 3 credits, one Japanese literature in translation at 300 or above for 3 credits, one pre-modern Japanese culture/history course at 300 or above for 3 credits, and one modern Japanese culture/history course at 300 or above for 3 credits, one Japanese or JPNese literature in translation at 300 or above for 3 credits, and one East Asia related course in the Humanities at 300 or above for 3 credits.

The revised requirements for EALC concentration in Japanese Language and Literature are as follows: At least 31 credit hours of junior/senior-level courses are required: JPN 306-310 and JPN 504-508; JPN 562, and a choice of the following: JPN 564, JPN 569 (Business Japanese), or a course in Japanese linguistics or language pedagogy; ECIV 304 or 305; one premodern and one modern course on Japanese literature in translation (must be taught by an EALC faculty member or in an approved study abroad program); and one course each on*premodern and *modern Japan. A course that is cross-regional in scope may be substituted for either the premodern or modern Japan course (e.g. Buddhism in Asia for premodern Japan, Entrepreneurship in East Asia for modern Japan). The Honors course 499 may be used to fulfill either of the above marked with *. At least nine hours of content courses must be taken at K.U.

JUSTIFICATION
Language requirements include one additional course, a choice of the second semester of fourth year, Business Japanese, or a course in linguistics/language pedagogy. The increase in East Asian courses at K.U. covering more than one East Asian culture explains the option for a course that is cross-regional in scope. Also new is the option to use EALC 499, the course for the Honors thesis, to replace requirements designated with an asterisk.

Former requirement stipulated that students “take premodern and modern history sequences in the country of concentration.” Course offerings in the History department have proven too irregular to allow this stipulation, thus the change to a more general designation of “one course on premodern and one on modern …”
